Power System Protection And Switchgear By Rabindranath.pdf

Power system is one of the basic needs of any people in any country in the world. If an organization does not have power then that organization cannot function. Power systems are the systems that supply electrical power to a site or a number of sites. It is a system that has three most essential components namely; generation, transmission and distribution. In India we have both the primary and the secondary generation. The distribution of the generation is different in different states and this causes trouble in the transmission.
